Letters To The Herald

Editor El Paso Herald:

Why should any one be paid for writing "Deriled Motheriniaw," published in your paper Friday, a joke so stale it smolls to high heaven?

We men are progressive enough to know our good wives must have, or have had, good mothers, and so are disposed to think of the motheriniaw kindly and treat her with respect.

"City Beautiful" Movement Started by Architects Is Getting Results.

A city planning commission is operated to result from the first mass exposition of the Southwestern attests' association.

At the smoker which was given by the association Monday might in the chamber of commerce to ceipeane the success of the first exposition which closed Monday evening, the appointment of such a commission was urged by F. G. Gustin, manager of the exposition, who urged that this commission he selected at once to work out a comprebensive scheme of city planning and beautification, park systems and factory sites along the lines outlined eshionally in The Herald.

Results From Exposition.

R. B. Orndorff, president of the chamber of commerce, congratulated the association on its excellent exhibit and especially for the impetus which the association ind given to the city beautiful and city planning movement. "As a direct result of your exposition, J. H. Stine, playground supervisor, has sent to Seattle for a number of colored lantern slides which he will use in a secture to be given at the next examiner of commerce dinner, said Mr. Orndorff. "The Civic league has also expressed its interest in the civin planning which the Architects' association has started expressed a desire to join with the chamber of commerce in order to better the Architects' association has started expressed a desire to join with the chamber of commerce in order to better cooperate with us in realisting these plans for a more beautiful city."

Architects Build Friendships.

Julius Krakamer also made a strong talk in favor of a better and more beautiful city and declared that the Architects' association had taught El Paso something more important than architecture and that was fellowship. "You have set us an example in friendship and organization which is an important one," said Mr. Krakamer. "While you have also been building buildings you have also been building friendships, and these will endure longer than the buildings."

have also been building friendships, and these will endure longer than the buildings.

E. Krause was introduced by Edward Kneezell, president of the association, as El Paso's first architect, having come here and opened the first office to the town in 1881. Mr. Krause was given an ovation by his associates and the guests at the smoker. Mr. Krause made an appeal to the visitors for a better understanding of the architects were honest and declared that architects were honest and their business was to protect the man who builds and to save him manny.

Other talks were made C. E. Kelly A. J. Robertson and George Robertson. It was announced at the meating by Mr. Kneezell that a bigger exposition would be given next year and the architects were now going to work for the city planning campaign. Mr. Kneezell also thanked the chamber of commerce and all who had assisted in making the tiest exposition a success.

A hunch was served in the basement of the chamber of commerce building.
